The Citizens Utility Board Wednesday launched an online service that rewards users for documented reductions in their energy usage.

The site, www.CUBEnergySaver.com, offers ComEd customers a chance to obtain recommendations for curbing energy consumption tailored to each household and earn points redeemable with hundreds of local and national businesses. The first 10,000 ComEd customers who join CUB Energy Saver will be eligible for the rewards program.

A pilot version has been showing participants how to cut their energy usage by an average of about 6 percent.
