Phone bills out of control? Did you have to put a fourth mortgage on your house just to keep your cell phone on?

If so, fret no more.

The New Lenox Public Library, 120 Veterans Parkway, will host the Citizens Utility Board's telephone bills program at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the library's Meeting Room B.

A representative from the Citizens Utility Board, and Illinois utility watchdog group, will discuss ways to save money on telephone service.

Topics will include low-cost local calling plans, options for saving money on long-distance service and the truth about expensive inside wire-maintenance plans.

Residents also will learn about bundled packages and will find out the latest and best deals.

Registration is requested at the library's adult services reference desk on the second floor.

For more information, call the library at (815) 485-2605, Ext. 123 or visit www.newlenoxlibrary.org.
