The Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) has passed unprecedented consumer protections to help Illinois residential utility customers struggling to pay their bills amid the COVID-19 crisis. The order—issued in June after two months of negotiations among consumer advocates and the utilities—builds on protections that were put in place at the request of Gov. J.B. Pritzker and Attorney General Kwame Raoul in March. The order covers the eight utilities listed (with their numbers) on the back page. If you have questions about these protections, please contact your utility.

What protections are included in the plan?

The agreement allows verbal expressions of financial hardship to remove barriers to accessing these protections. No documentation is required.

Disconnections:
- The ICC moratorium on disconnections and late payment fees ended July 26. However, many utilities in the state agreed to extend it until September. Those utilities include: Ameren Illinois, Aqua Illinois, ComEd, Illinois American Water, Nicor Gas, North Shore Gas, Peoples Gas and Utilities Inc.
- Customers who were disconnected for nonpayment over the last year can be reconnected without paying reconnection fees for a six-month period that ends Dec. 26. Note: You must contact the utility—this will not be done automatically. Also, only customers who are seeking reconnection at the same premise from which they were disconnected will get reconnected under this provision. This protection is for all customers who qualify for Low Income Home Energy Assistance (LIHEAP) or simply express financial hardship. Customers who are not LIHEAP eligible and don’t claim financial hardship have until Aug. 26 to get reconnected without paying fees.
- Reconnected customers will have any outstanding balance rolled to the reconnected accounts.

Waiving Deposits:
- Utilities must waive deposits connected to late payment or non-payment, arrearages, or credit-related issues for customers experiencing financial hardship for a six-month period that ends Dec. 26. All other customers will receive this benefit until Aug. 26.
- For a six-month period that ends Dec. 26, utilities will not report late payments and nonpayment for active customers to credit bureaus and reporting agencies.

Consumer-friendly Payment Plans:
- For a six-month period ending Dec. 26, utilities are required to offer longer Deferred Payment Arrangements (DPAs)—plans that help people pay off debt with a utility.
- DPAs for customers who are LIHEAP-eligible or express financial hardship will not require a downpayment and will be extended to 24 months. All other customers will be required to make a down payment of no more than 10% of their arrearage in order to start the arrangement, and may select periods up to 18 months to pay it off. (Typically, at this time of year, such plans require 25 percent down and are no more than 12 months.)

Note: These arrangements will only be available for a six-month period that ends Dec. 26, so take advantage of them now and try your best to remain on them. Defaults on this arrangement could require down payment (or higher down payment) and a shorter pay-off period to reinstate.

Can I receive any financial assistance?

The relief plan includes a Bill Payment Assistance Program which offers debt forgiveness for eligible utility customers facing financial struggles. Funding is limited. Each utility’s program will be slightly different in terms of the total amount of available funding for the program, the amount allotted to each customer and the way it will be administered. To apply, contact your utility. To see the maximum assistance amount you could receive, consult the chart below.

Does this plan apply to all utilities?

No. The plan only applies to Illinois’ private investor-owned electric, natural gas and water companies. Specifically, this agreement covers customers of Ameren Illinois, Aqua Illinois, ComEd, Illinois American Water, Nicor Gas, North Shore Gas, Peoples Gas and Utilities Inc. A separate agreement was entered into for smaller investor-owned utilities in the state. CUB has a separate fact sheet on those protections.

Are there any other key provisions?

The utilities are required to report disconnections and other credit and collections data from now through August of 2021. This data will provide valuable information about which communities are struggling to pay utility bills so that future relief efforts can be focused on the areas that need them most.

The utilities have also agreed to engage in separate discussions about the affordability of utility service for low-income consumers. The discussion will center around the possibility of developing a low-income discount and arrearage management/reduction programs. It also will examine the effectiveness, administration and funding of the Percentage of Income Payment Plan (PIPP), and steps to ensure PIPP funds are protected from being used for other purposes in the state budget process. PIPP gives assistance to fixed-income consumers as long as they consistently pay a percentage of their energy bill.

Who negotiated this relief plan?

The plan was negotiated among Illinois’ major utilities and a coalition of consumer advocates and government officials, including: CUB, Illinois Attorney General Kwame Raoul’s office; Chicago Mayor Lori Lightfoot’s office; Community Organizing and Family Issues (COFI), represented by the National Consumer Law Center; the Legal Aid Society of Metropolitan Family Services; and Allen Cherry, a longtime advocate for low-income utility customers in Illinois.
